Annotated Bibliography

What is an Annotated Bibliography?

It is a list of citations to books, articles and other resources where each citation is followed by a brief descriptive and evaluative paragraph. The purpose of the annotation is to inform the reader of the relevance, accuracy and quality of the sources cited, basically what evidence does this source offer, what do you expect to find within this source? Annotations should be around 60 words.

1. Choose a topic from the list I have provided. We will go to the library as a class and you will find nine sources on your topic and type an annotated bibliography for them.
2. 3 sources must be primary sources, 3 must be secondary and you must have a combination of both books and internet sources.
3. You must include at least one scholarly journal article
4. For each annotation you must discuss
   a. The content, what is this resource about?
   b. What is its focus/audience, why was it written?
   c. Usefulness. What does it contribute to your research? What do you expect to find within this source?
   d. Authority of the author, their background, education
   e. Ease of use? What is the reading level of this source?
5. You must use MLA format for your bibliography.

6. When you have completed your annotated bibliography you will develop a research question related to your topic that could be answered from the evidence (sources) you have collected based on the description of those sources.
